

Thursday, June 11, 2009

MOVING THE MOVER: Miami-Dade Transit is eyeing operating the people mover being built to connect Miami International Airport to the Miami Intermodal Center, a central transportation hub the Florida Department of Transportation is funding. Commissioner Barbara Jordan was to propose a feasibility study Wednesday. The 1.25-mile elevated mover, now under construction, is designed to transport more than 3,000 passengers an hour.